

THE NEW YORK STORE

ESTABLISHED 1869

CLOAK DEPARTMENT

TO THE LADIES:

We desire to make known to you the fact of our having marked down our entire stock of Cloaks. We have made very low prices in order to close the season and not carry over a garment. Our stock is not large but very well assorted in Newmarkets, Circulars, and the new short Dolmans, and at prices which will suit the wants of all. Our Misses' Cloaks are also marked down. Ladies who are about purchasing an outside wrap will find it to their interest to examine our stock at the marked-down prices.

CITY IN BRIEF.

James H. Irwin, of 22 Brett street, died yesterday of pneumonia.

The new G. A. R. post was mustered last evening in the hall in Griffith's Block.

George Luck, who was reported as missing from 272 West Maryland street, has returned.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the lower court in the contested election case of Heiney versus Watson.

Judge Edwin P. Hammond, of the Supreme Court, retired yesterday, and will be succeeded by Judge Mitchell to-morrow.

Jesse Sampson, wanted in Jennings County for grand larceny, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Brody and Spearling, as a fugitive from justice.

The F. W. Cook Brewery Company, of Evansville, has been incorporated. The capital stock is $200,000, and the directors are F. W. Cook, G. M. Daussman and Andrew Wollenberger.

The Democratic Soldiers and Sailors' Veteran Association will hold their regular monthly meeting at the office of Secretary of State Myers on Monday evening, January 5. A full attendance is desired.

During the meeting of the commercial travelers, yesterday, a petition was circulated among the members, and largely signed, recommending E. A. Allison, a member of the association, for coal oil inspector. The petition is addressed to Governor Gray.

The annual pew-letting of the Second Presbyterian Church will take place to-morrow evening. Members of the church and congregation are earnestly requested to be present. Under the terms of the charter all pews are declared vacant at the end of the year.

A sample slate for the roof of the new State House is on exhibition at the office of the Commissioners. It is twenty-four inches long, fourteen inches broad and one-half inch thick. Considering the amount of surface to be covered, this will make a roof of great weight.

Herman Meyers, living near the intersection of the Belt Road and Shelby street, was ejected by order of Squire Smoot, on last Wednesday. Yesterday it was found that he had forced an entrance into the house and had moved into it again. He was arrested for trespass, found guilty, fined $1 and costs and sent to jail.

The Indianapolis Art School, English's building, Circle, begins its next term January 5 with a large number of pupils, and with good prospects. Its pupils are from various parts of the State, as well as from this city, and all the persons who aspire to be well rounded in their study of art, and to do something worth while.

Twain-Cable Readings.
Mark Twain and George W. Cable will appear at Plymouth Church in a joint reading on Wednesday evening. The gentlemen have appeared in all large cities of the East, and their entertainment has proved a most acceptable treat to the amusement-going people. Speaking of their debut in New York, the World says that the reading was filled to its utmost seating capacity, and a few moments only sufficed to put the entire audience in sympathy with the two interpreters of their own works upon the platform.

The selections alternated and made a varied play of light and shade throughout the evening. Cable's pathos preceding Twain's humor. Cable led off with the scene between "Narcissus and John" and Mary Richling, from "Dr. Jekyll and Hyde" followed with selections from the "Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." Cable's remaining selections were all from "Dr. Jekyll," while Twain's in turn were "Fragile Tale of the Fishwife," "A Trying Situation," and "A Ghost Story." They will no doubt have a large audience at Plymouth Church Wednesday evening.

A COPPER'S FREAK.

He Places a Councilman Under Arrest For Safe-Blowing, but Soon Releases Him.

Beyond a doubt there is one policeman in this city who can not boast of an extensive acquaintance with Indianapolis Councilmen, and this same copper a few days since figured conspicuously in an affair that was not given newspaper publicity at the time of its occurrence, simply because he and others concerned agreed that it was to their interest to "say nothing." Their efforts to keep the affair a secret were not attended with success, however, for by some means or other it leaked out. In order that several persons may not be compromised names are withheld, but suffice it to say that a couple of evenings after the robbery of the Aldridge safe, which, by the way, occurred the night before Christmas, a gay and festive Councilman, in company with a friend, was "seeing the sights" and in the course of their wanderings stopped at the residence of friends on the South Side. They noticed as they were about to enter the house that an individual who had evidently been following them, stopped at the wheel and, going rapidly off in the direction they had come, the Councilman and his friends were enjoying themselves hugely when there was a loud rap at the door, and on its being opened a man pushed his way in whom the "city dad" and his companion recognized at once as the same individual who had followed them to the house. The stranger paid no attention to anybody, but walked quietly over to where the Councilman was sitting and began to question him as to his business, where he lived, what was his name and what he was doing in Indianapolis. The Councilman saw it to tell the nifty stranger that it was none of his business who he was or what he was, and was preparing to fire him out of the house, when the man, exhibiting his coat and displayed a policeman's badge, telling the astonished lawmaker that he wanted him for safe blowing. The Councilman was about to protest, but the policeman marched him out, and the posse of officers who had surrounded the house, for the purpose of intercepting the "safe blower" should he attempt to escape by knocking down the valiant copper who did the detective part of the act, nearly fainted in their tracks when they saw the prisoner. "Great heavens," yelled a Sergeant to the lawless peeler, "do you know who you have got there? Release him at once. That is Councilman —," one of the better known property owners in the city. For sweet charity's sake the curtain will drop right here. It is needless to say that the Councilman was released in no pleasant frame of mind, while several mad and one very sad-looking copper meandered down the street, each one deeply engrossed in his own thoughts.

MR. MALOTT'S SUCCESSOR.

James F. Failey Appointed Police Commissioner at Yesterday's Meeting.

The State officers held a meeting yesterday morning for the purpose of selecting a member of the Board of Police Commissioners to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. V. T. Malott. After consultation the Governor nominated Mr. James F. Failey, and he was unanimously elected to the vacant position. The Secretary, Treasurer and Auditor virtually conceded to Governor Terrier the privilege of naming the Republican member, and when the Governor nominated Mr. Failey the others concurred and the matter was settled. The new appointee was at one time connected with the Barren Wheel Works Company, but is now engaged in the same business at the corner of First and Canal streets. Mr. Failey is a practical business man, a substantial and trustworthy citizen, and in every respect worthy to be the successor of Mr. Malott. The Governor made a very wise selection, as the appointee recognizes the necessity of maintaining a non-partisan police force, and will lend valuable aid to the other members of the board and work in harmony with them for the city's weal.

Death in the River.

The body of an unknown man was found yesterday in the river ice a few feet above the mouth of the Kentucky avenue sewer. He was about forty-five years of age and quite gray. He was found by John Phelps, of 227 West Merzill street, who with John
